In addition to a second foreign language, there are two main subareas of study in a traditional foreign languages and literature department, namely, linguistics and literature. Some students prefer one to the other, while others like both. Which is your favorite, or do you like them both? Respond to the following questions, allocating your time in proportion to their weights (i.e., %):

- (1) Which do you like best, linguistics or literature? What do you know about it? Choose the one you are more interested in and describe, in ONE paragraph, what it is about (e.g., What does it study? Why is it important to you or the society?). In case you are interested in both, choose one that you are relatively fonder of for your writing. (30%; ONE paragraph)
- (2) Why do you prefer the one to the other? Or why do you love both? Compare the two in your response in a well-organized short essay no more than three paragraphs in length. (70%; THREE or LESS paragraphs)

Note that your writing will be evaluated by its content, i.e., logic and ideas, as well as organization and clarity in expression, but NOT by its length. That is, make it short but complete and sufficient to make your point well.
